

AMERICA IN THE 1960S · COLLEGE STATION
Thursday, February 13, 2020

HUMANITIES TEXAS TEACHER PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOP

Annenberg Presidential Conference Center • 1002 George Bush Drive West • College Station, Texas

7:30–8:15 a.m.	Check-in and breakfast
8:15–8:30 a.m.	Welcome and opening remarks Carlos Blanton, Texas A&M University Eric Lupfer, Humanities Texas
8:30–9:15 a.m.	The Cold War Mark Atwood Lawrence, LBJ Presidential Library
9:20–10:05 a.m.	The Civil Rights Movement Felipe Hinojosa, Texas A&M University
10:05–10:25 a.m.	Break and group photo
10:25–10:35 a.m.	Humanities Texas educational resources
10:35–11:20 a.m.	LBJ and the Great Society Michael L. Gillette
11:25 a.m.–12:10 p.m.	Protest Movements of the 1960s Terry Anderson, Texas A&M University
12:10–1:00 p.m.	Lunch
1:00–3:30 p.m.	Primary source seminars
3:30–3:45 p.m.	Closing announcements

Image: President Lyndon B. Johnson meets with Martin Luther King Jr., August 6th, 1965. LBJ Library Photo by Yoichi Okamoto.

Made possible with support from the State of Texas and the National Endowment for the Humanities. Held in partnership with the Texas A&M University Department of History.

TEXAS A&M
UNIVERSITY.

FEATURED SCHOLARS

TERRY ANDERSON is professor of history and former Cornerstone Faculty Fellow at Texas A&M University. He has published five books and coauthored one, A Flying Tiger's Diary, with pilot Charles R. Bond Jr. His first book was The United States, Great Britain, and the Cold War, 1944–47. A baby boomer who went from a boy, to a Vietnam vet, to a man during the tumultuous 1960s, he knew that he would have to write on that time and has published The Movement and the Sixties, focusing on social activism, and a survey entitled The Sixties. During the 1990s, he became interested in public policy that was dividing the American public, and he penned The Pursuit of Fairness: A History of Affirmative Action and, most recently, Bush's Wars, which concerns the younger Bush's War on Terror in Afghanistan and, especially, the conflict in Iraq. He has visited over eighty countries, held four Fulbright professorships, and taught in Malaysia, Japan, China, Ireland, Indonesia, and the Czech Republic.

MICHAEL L. GILLETTE served as executive director of Humanities Texas from 2003 until July 2019. His former positions include directing the LBJ Library's Oral History Program from 1976 to 1991 and serving as director of the Center for Legislative Archives from 1991 to 2003, with responsibility for the official records of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives at the National Archives. Gillette serves on the Board of Distinguished Visitors of the John Glenn College of Public Affairs at The Ohio State University and the board of directors of the Congressional Education Foundation. His previous affiliations include the board of directors of the Congressional Education Foundation, the Everett Dirksen Congressional Leadership Center, and the Law Library of Congress's National Digital Library Program. Gillette is the author of Launching the War on Poverty: An Oral History and editor of Texas in Transition. His most recent book, Lady Bird Johnson: An Oral History, was released by Oxford University Press in 2012. He received his BA in government and his PhD in history from The University of Texas at Austin. He is a recipient of the UT College of Liberal Arts' Pro Bene Meritis Award.

FELIPE HINOJOSA, born and raised in Brownsville, is associate professor of history at Texas A&M University. He received his PhD in history from the University of Houston in 2009. His teaching and research interests include Latina/o and Mexican American studies, American religion, social movements, gender, and comparative race and ethnicity. He serves as director of undergraduate studies in the history department and is the cofounder and cocoordinator for the Latina/o Studies Working Group, which is sponsored by the Melburn G. Glasscock Center for Humanities Research at Texas A&M University. Professor Hinojosa has published articles on Latina/o religion, the Chicano movement, and the War on Poverty in Texas in the Western Historical Quarterly and Mennonite Quarterly Review. Professor Hinojosa's book, Latino Mennonites: Civil Rights, Faith, and Evangelical Culture, was published in 2014 by Johns Hopkins University Press. The book was awarded the 2015 Américo Paredes Book Award for the best book in Mexican American and Latina/o studies, given every year by the Center for Mexican American Studies at South Texas College.

MARK ATWOOD LAWRENCE is director of the LBJ Presidential Library and Museum in Austin, Texas. Previously, he was associate professor history at The University of Texas at Austin, where he taught classes in American and international history. Lawrence is author of Assuming the Burden: Europe and the American Commitment to War in Vietnam (Berkeley: University of California Press, 2005), which won the Paul Birdsall Prize in European Military and Strategic History and the George Louis Beer Prize for European international history. In 2008, he published The Vietnam War: A Concise International History (New York: Oxford University Press), which was selected by the History Book Club and the Military History Book Club. He has also published several edited and coedited books, as well as numerous articles, chapters, and reviews on various aspects of the history of U.S. foreign relations. In 2005, he was awarded the President's Associates' Award for Teaching Excellence at UT-Austin and, in 2019, the Silver Spurs Centennial Teaching Fellowship from the UT College of Liberal Arts. Lawrence has held the Cassius Marcellus Clay Fellowship at Yale University (2006—2008) and the Stanley Kaplan Visiting Professorship in American Foreign Policy at Williams College (2011—2012). He earned his BA from Stanford University and his PhD from Yale University. He is now completing a study of U.S. policymaking toward the Third World in the 1960s.