HUMANITIES TEXAS PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT WEBINAR

March 30, 2026
5:00–6:15 p.m.

America After the American Revolution

This webinar will examine immediate and long-term legacies of the American Revolution. This is the sixth in a series of webinars held in 2025–2026 to commemorate the United States Semiquincentennial.

DENVER BRUNSMAN is associate professor and chair of the history department at George Washington University, where his courses include “George Washington and His World,” taught annually at Mount Vernon. His book, The Evil Necessity: British Naval Impressment in the Eighteenth-Century Atlantic World (2013), received the Walker Cowen Memorial Prize for an outstanding work in eighteenth-century studies in the Americas and Atlantic world. He is also a coauthor of a leading college and AP U.S. History textbook, Liberty, Equality, Power: A History of the American People (2016, 2020), and the coeditor of The American Revolution Reader (2014), among other works. His honors include the Oscar and Shoshana Trachtenberg Prize for Teaching Excellence at George Washington University (2018) and selection as the higher education chair of the College Board AP U.S. History Development Committee (2021–2023).
