ARAM GOUDSOUZIAN is Bizot Family Professor of History at the University of Memphis, where he writes and teaches about the twentieth-century United States with a focus on race, politics, and culture. He is the author of The Men and the Moment: The Election of 1968 and the Rise of Partisan Politics in America (University of North Carolina Press, 2019); Down to the Crossroads: Civil Rights, Black Power, and the Meredith March Against Fear (Farrar, Straus, and Giroux, 2014); King of the Court: Bill Russell and the Basketball Revolution (University of California Press, 2010); and Sidney Poitier: Man, Actor, Icon (University of North Carolina Press, 2004). He has also co-edited an essay collection with Charles McKinney, entitled An Unseen Light: Black Struggles for Freedom in Memphis, Tennessee (University of Kentucky Press, 2018).

Martin Luther King Jr. addresses a crowd from the steps of the Lincoln Memorial where he delivered his famous, “I Have a Dream,” speech during the Aug. 28, 1963, March on Washington.

Made possible with major funding from the State of Texas, with ongoing support from the National Endowment for the Humanities.
